Fordson

It is a habit of Henry Ford to thoroughly try out and test any product he manufactures before he puts it on the market. He personally must know it will do all he wants it to do before he will allow anybody else to buy it. For thirty-five years he worked on this Fordson Tractor. He kept buying land until he had something like eight thousand acres in order that he might get a variety of soil conditions containing the plowing problems that meet the farmers of the world, and then the Fordson Tractor was put to work and made to take all sorts of practical tests before Mr. Ford put it on the market.

And, therefore, when it came on the market, it was right, it was reliable, it would do the work he said it would do. People have bought it, have tried it out, have tested it, and it has proven to be all that Mr. Ford claims it to be, and this is why that while farm tractors have been on the American market more than twenty years and while three hundred thousand have been sold one hundred thousand of that three hundred thousand are Fordson Tractors, and yet the Fordson has been on the market two years.

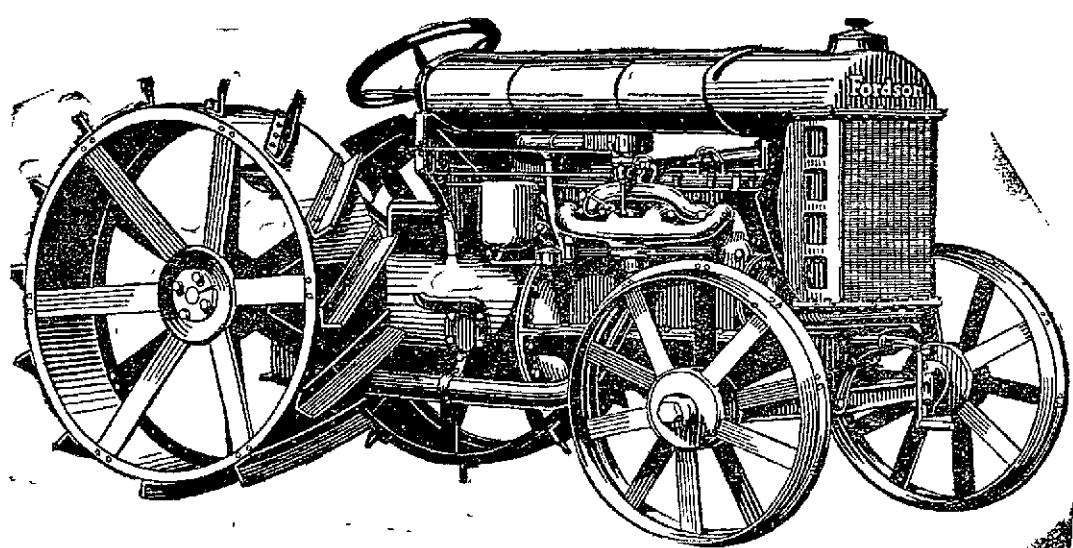

It has sold rapidly because when one farmer bought one, he practically converted the neighborhood to the desirability and report of the Fordson Tractor on the farm.

The Fordson is small, compact, flexible, dependable. It has made to be much more convenient to handle than a horse. It was made so that anybody of ordinary common sense could operate and take care of it. We wanted to make it so that a mechanic would not have to be sold with every tractor. It was made by a farmer for a farmer, and it has the endorsement of the farmers—the little farmer and the big farmer. Some farmers have one, some farmers have ten and fifteen, and one farmer we know has fifty-six. It works just as well in the West as it does in the East. It is just as flexible in the North as it is in the South. It is just as profitable in the wheat fields as it is in the sugar and rice fields. It is just as flexible and useful on the fruit ranch as it is among the fields of oats and barley. It is just as useful and profitable in the lumber camp, railroad yard, coal mine, as it is in the oil fields or for the farmer. It is especially his necessity.

Because it increases the production of every acre by enabling the farmer to cultivate his ground to better advantage than he can with mule or horse power. It takes the sting and drudgery out of farm work. It is a great conservator of labor expenses. Oh, it has so many money-saving advantages that the farmer can't do without and be without it.

So we ask every farmer to come in, and let us make a demonstration for him on his own farm. Let us test it out to his soil conditions. Let's show him.

Don't delay for there are only so many Fordson tractors to come to this territory. Get your order in now, and remember that the Fordson after everything necessary to keep your Fordson going over.

BEDFORD GAZETTE

Bedford University, October 3, 1919.

Scope of League Covenant

It provides for disarmament on the part of the great fighting nations of the world.

It provides in detail for the rehabilitation of oppressed peoples and that will remove most causes of war.

It provides that there shall be no more annexations of territory anywhere but that those territories whose people are not ready to govern themselves shall be entrusted to the trusteeship of the nations that can take care of them, the trustee nation to be responsible in annual report to the League of Nations.

It abolishes enforced labor.

It provides that every secret treaty shall be invalid.

It provides for the protection of dependent peoples.

It provides that high standards of labor, such as are observed in the United States, shall be extended to the workman everywhere in the world.—President Wilson in an address at St. Paul, Minnesota, September 9, 1919.

G. O. P. Fosters Anarchy

The people of this country are getting very tired of hearing about Republican efforts of "organization against socialism and the increasing drift toward lawlessness" when the failure of the Republican Senators to approve the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations is stimulating more than anything else, the increasing drift toward lawlessness and anarchy. The people of the country know what they want, and if I am any judge of the temper of the people, they intend to have this Peace Treaty approved now and without any more delay. I AM DISGUSTED WITH THE SO-CALLED REPUBLICAN LEADERS AND I AM NOT A WILSON MAN, either personally or politically. On the other hand I am not in favor of LETTING THE COUNTRY DRIFT TO THE DEVIL WHILE REPUBLICAN LEADERS PLAY HORSE.—From a letter of former Governor Frank D. Jackson, of Iowa (Republican), replying to Representative Riddick asking a contribution to the Republican organization.

NEWBERRY'S PURCHASED SEAT IN THE U. S. SENATE

Newberry—under sentence to the penitentiary; convicted of election frauds by a jury of his peers.

Newberry—United States Senator, making laws governing more than 100,000,000 people; holding to a seat in the greatest deliberative body in the world; suffered to remain in public life because the Republicans needed his vote to give them control of the Senate and to defeat the League of Nations.

The case is without parallel in the politics of the United States!

MAGNA CHARTA OF LABOR IN TREATY

This Treaty contains other things unheard of until this interesting year of grace. There is a whole section of the treaty devoted to action of those who labor with their hands over the world, whether they be men or women or children, are sought to be safeguarded. It foresees the day, which ought to have come long ago, when statesmen will realize that no nation is fortunate which is not happy, and that no nation can be happy whose people are not contented; contented in their lives and fortunate in the circumstances of their lives.—From President Wilson's Address at Columbus, Ohio, September 4, 1919.

Democratic State the 36th to Ratify Susan B. Anthony Amendment, Thus Making First Payment on Democracy's "Promissory Note"

On Wednesday, August 18th, the Democratic State of Tennessee fulfilled a pledge made by the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco scarcely six weeks before. That Democratic State, the 36th to ratify the Susan B. Anthony amendment to the Constitution, became the effective means to enfranchising the women of the United States. The first payment on the Democratic "promissory note," as Governor Cox has called the Democratic platform, has been made.

The Democratic platform unequivocally pledged itself to ratification. The convention sent strong messages to the Democratic States of Louisiana and Tennessee urging the immediate calling of a legislative session for ratification.

The Republican National Convention in Chicago contented itself with "earnestly hoping" that the enfranchisement of the women of the United States might be completed in time for election.

In response to the party wish, the Democratic Governor of the Democratic State of Tennessee convened the legislature for the purpose of ratification.

REPUBLICAN GOVERNORS DO NOTHING

Two Republican Governors of Republican States, Holcomb of Connecticut, and Clement of Vermont, have insistently refused to convene the Republican legislature of their states for ratification.

The Democratic candidate for President of the United States, after the calling of the extra session by Governor Roberts of Tennessee, urged upon the Democrats of that state the duty of completing the enfranchisement of women before the election. He even held himself in readiness to go in person to Tennessee if, in the judgement of the proponents of suffrage, that step were desirable.

Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, also sent a strong message urging ratification on the Democrats of Tennessee.

"Those now inveighing against an interest in affairs outside of America * * * charge experimentation, when we have as historical precedent the Monroe Doctrine, WHICH IS THE VERY ESSENCE OF ARTICLE X OF THE VERSAILLES COVENANT. Skeptics viewed Monroe's mandate with alarm, predicting recurrent wars in defense of Central and South American states, whose guardians they alleged we need not be. And yet not a shot has been fired in almost one hundred years in this hemisphere of sovereign rights on the part of America."

DEPT. OF FORESTRY

Increased protection against forest fires will be given to the State Forests in Bedford, Fulton and Pennsylvania Department of Forestry. State Forester Snyder has been assigned to that territory during fire season as an assistant to District Forester William L. Byers, of Everett. Last week Forester Snyder traveled through the district, visiting forest fire wardens in Franklin and Fulton counties, and familiarizing himself with the territory.

Forester Byers recently inspected several forest fire hazards, examined some saw mills and instructed their owners to put screens in the smoke stacks to prevent sparks starting fires. He appointed several forest fire patrolmen, and told them how to do their work during the fall fire season. Several hunting camps were inspected and a quantity of literature on forest fires was distributed by Forester Byers.

Federation of Labor, in the "American Federationist" for June, 1920.

Allow me to express through the "Official Bulletin" of the Treasury Office my gratitude for the enthusiasm shown by all associates with your office in raising our national campaign funds for 1920.—(Senator Harding's letter to Republican Treasurer Upham.)

Come on Boys! Get the money!

The old Chap needs it.

LABOR'S CHOICE

In the report of the platform committee of the American Federation of Labor Non-Partisan Political Campaign Committee on the records of Governor Cox and Senator Harding the three members reached the following conclusions, to which they signed their names:

"There can be but one conclusion based upon a careful and impartial survey of the actions and declarations of the candidates. Governor Cox has shown himself possessed of a fuller understanding of the needs of the working people, a readier response to their needs and to their proposals, and a broader statesmanship in his public discussions of the industrial world.

"In addition to his superior understanding, Governor Cox is the candidate on a platform which Labor has declared 'marks a measure of progress not found in the Republican platform' and the planks of which 'more nearly approximate the desired declaration of human rights than do the planks found in the Republican platform.'

"Not only in the specific utterances relating directly to questions held paramount by Labor is the comparison favorable to Governor Cox. His progressive and constructive viewpoint holds throughout his declaration of public questions.

STATE CONVENTION

Pennsylvania Congress of Mothers will hold State Convention at Williamsport, Pa. November 3, 4, and 5. Mrs. Alice F. Kiernan, State President, will preside.

The new National President, Mrs. Wilton Higgins, of Worcester, Mass. and Mrs. David O. Mears, a National Vice President, will be on the program, which will be a most helpful one throughout. One afternoon will be given to a round table discussion of rural P. T. A. problems—conducted by Dr. Lee Driver, whom Dr. Finegan has asked to take charge of rural school work in Pennsylvania, and who has the reputation of being the greatest expert in his line in our country. Another afternoon will be given to a similar discussion of the work of city councils—to be conducted by Mrs. Higgins. Small town problems will also be considered at this meeting. Dr. Ellen C. Potter, head of the Child-Welfare Division of the State Department of Health and Prof. W. P. Harley, who has successfully installed self-government in the schools of Mt. Union, Pa. will be on the program, also.

Parent Teachers Associations are becoming active all over the State; Cambria and Somerset counties recently organized county federations.

The Convention at Williamsport promises to be one of the most interesting, entertaining and successful ever held, and everyone interested in Child-Welfare and all questions necessary to make Child-Welfare a success are urged to attend.

The Cause of Peace

The war had set a great task for Statesmanship. The best thought of the world demanded that a serious attempt be made by the leaders of the allied governments to formulate a Treaty of Peace which should prevent the recurrences of war. Every rightful impulse of the human heart was in accord with that purpose. From time immemorial, men have dreamed of peace; poets have sung of it; mothers everywhere have hoped and prayed that the day might come when wars would no longer be necessary in the settlement of international differences.

CANDY MOTTOES

By JACK LAWTON.

(© 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)
It had been love at first sight, with Harcourt, from the moment Janet entered the big, sunny living room of the Westovers. Jim Westover had been Harcourt's chum at college, while Janet was the chosen friend of Jim's bride. So, to one of the first of the young married couple's week-end parties the two were invited.

Harcourt frankly anticipated a tedious time; he had even begged Jim to let him off and ask instead some "five-o'clock-tea ladies'-man." "You know how I am with the women," Harcourt said. "An hour or two of their parlor society is just an hour or two too much. If you really want me to have a good time, Jim, ask me when none of the fair ones are there, and let's play golf."

To all of which Jim briefly responded.

"Wait until you see Janet."

Harcourt had seen Janet, with the effect above mentioned.

Harcourt was a good-looking young fellow. Moreover, Harcourt had a "way with him." Janet evidently discovered that pleasing way before she had been half an hour in his company. Almost it seemed that Janet the popular had also succumbed to a dual aim of Cupid! Never, at least, had she been at a loss for ready conversation, never had she watched for any man's reappearance as she watched for Harcourt's, when he left her. The "leaving" was of necessity. A man may not monopolize a young woman's society when others of a party are waiting for that pleasure. "Every one," he mused gloomily, "seemed waiting to talk to Janet."

Harcourt fretted through the evening, while others innocently barked his determined intention. The smitten one was allowed few and fleeting moments at his loved one's side. The day which followed brought no better success. It was strange and maddening how well-meaning people, unconscious of their own state of mind, could merrily erect barriers between themselves and their one desire.

Janet was taken for rides on the lake. She was engaged immediately after for tennis. Even at the piano, with the evening lamp light enhancing her fairness, she was surrounded with happily bawling youths, while Harcourt fretted in the background.

"Don't seem to be enjoying yourself," Jim questioned anxiously.

"I'm not," snapped Harcourt.

Whereupon Jim, remembering his friend's former aversion for female society in general, planned to carry him off next morning for a prolonged game of golf. The plan was carried out, despite Helen's grieved protests.

"He doesn't care much for our company," she complained to Janet. And Janet, whose own eyes had gazed absently troubled throughout the gay entertainment lavished upon her, looked up now with an eager smile. "Helen," she said, "let me have Mr. Harcourt for a dinner companion tonight. I think I may be able to bring him to a happier frame of mind." Helen nodded relievedly.

"You help me in so many ways, dear," she said. "That's such a jolly plan of yours—to have the little bon-bon boxes at each place filled with children's motto candies. I'm sure they will have fun out of them. They have been just like children during their visit, anyway."

Jim's long game of golf did not appear to have the hoped for result. Harcourt's heart was not in the game. Jim drove his friend home disgustedly.

"For a healthy man," he told Helen later, "Harcourt seems to have developed a lot of nerves."

The nervous depression showed no sign of abatement until Helen announced her dinner companions. Then Harcourt arose with cheerful alacrity. Here, at last, was an opportunity for communication. If he could say no more, he might at least make a plea for further acquaintance. It was Helen herself, who unconsciously shattered that hope.

"Take your last look at Janet, everybody," she cried. "She's meeting her father in New York tomorrow morning to sail for a trip abroad."

"A trip abroad!" Harcourt gasped. "To let her go this way—right out of his life, the one—the only woman," Harcourt groaned. Then, as he bent to take his "last look at Janet," he saw that she was idly arranging certain motto candles upon the white cloth before them.

"Used to do this when I was little," she explained, absorbed.

"Oh, boy!" said the first candy. Harcourt smiled. Janet considered and shifted her next.

"Shall we meet again?" he read.

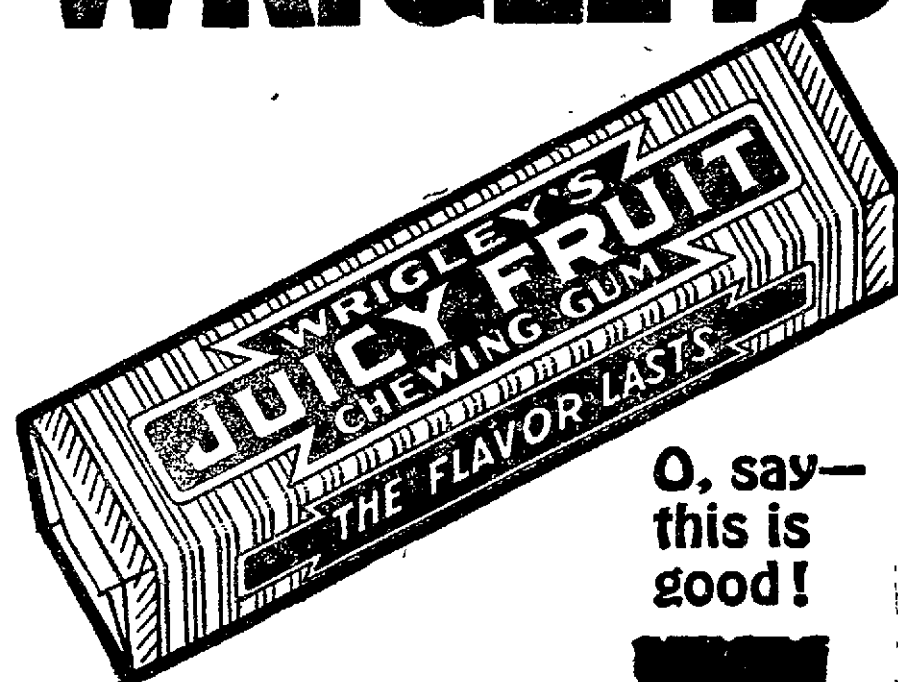

She laughed softly as she discarded several candles. Daringly Harcourt turned their printed faces upward. Then, with his eyes deliberately on hers, he placed the first discarded heart-shaped motto beside her finished sentence and added a second from his own dish.

"I love you," the girl read, and then—

"Oh, say! Will you be mine?" Tensely, meaningly Harcourt's eyes held hers; masterfully his hand clasped her own beneath the shelter of the table. Then, very idly, Janet's free hand sought again her basket. A white heart with red letters finished the row.

"Yes, dear," the candy answered him. What more could Harcourt wish?

"HOW WELL YOU LOOK!"

When Your Blood Is Rich and Red
People Notice Your Good Health.

PEPTO-MANGAN BUILDS HEALTH

Pale Face, Dull Eyes, Drooping Shoulders, Result From Clogged Blood

If your blood is in bad shape it shows up in your looks and feeling. When your blood is rich with red corpuscles your color is better—your lips are red, eyes wide open and bright; your good feeling shows in your actions.

Common sense will tell you that if weak, thin blood makes you look lifeless, it lowers your vitality. If your vitality is low you have little power to resist disease germs. Men, women and children with rich, red blood are able to fight off the germs which bring severe illness.

When you feel run down and weak, with no appetite and no ambition, take Pepto-Mangan for a while. It is a great blood building tonic. You should begin to feel better within a few days.

Pepto-Mangan is put up in both liquid and tablet form. Take either kind you prefer, because they have the same medicinal value. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan—"Gude's." The full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" should be on the package.

INFORMATION FOR 28TH DIVISION

In order to inform the members of the 28th Division who participated overseas in the Great World War, as to the battle clasps that they are entitled on their Victory Medals, the following Bulletin from the Army Recruiting Station at Harrisburg is issued. All inquiries should be directed to this society from men who have not as yet received their Medals.

The 28th Keystone, Iron Division, was made up of men composing the Pennsylvania National Guard This Division was the first organization from this state to see service overseas, arriving in France May 18th, 1918 under command of Major General Charles H. Muir.

From July 1st, 1918 to the Armistice, it fought steadily almost without rest, taking part in the following Major Operations: Champagne—Marne, July 15 to 18th, inclusive. Aisne—Marne, July 18, to August 6th, inclusive. Oise—Aisne, August 18th, to Sept 7th, inclusive. St. Mihiel as Corps Reserve, Sept. 12th, to 16th, inclusive. Meuse—Argonne, Sept 26th, to Oct. 9th, and the Thiaucourt Sector, which has part of the St. Mihiel, from October 16th, to the Armistice, November 11th. For these actions men of the 28th Division participating in these operations with their organizations are receiving from the Victory Medal Section of the Army Recruiting Station at Harrisburg, the Victory Medal with five clasps consisting of Battle Clasps for the Champagne—Marne, Aisne—Marne, Oise—Aisne, Meuse—Argonne and Defensive Sector.

Some elements of the 28th Division notably the 53rd Artillery Brigade composed of the 107th, 108th, 109th Field Artillery, 103rd Trench Mortar Battery and 103rd Ammunition Train are receiving an additional clasp for the Ypres—Lys Major Operation making a total of six clasps. These organizations were pulled out of the Argonne and sent to the Flanders front to help the British in their offensive.

Besides suffering the heaviest casualties of any National Guard Division in action they were only exceeded in casualties by the 2nd, 1st and 3rd Regular Army Divisions, respectively. They captured a total of 10 officer, 911 Men, 16 pieces of Artillery and 63 Machine Guns besides valuable supplies.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 31

HEW DOWN THE CORRUPT TREE—WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 7:13-23.
GOLDEN TEXT—Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.—Matt. 7:19.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Good Trees and Bad Trees.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Sharp Axe for a Corrupt Tree.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Fruits of the Liquor Traffic.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Complete Destruction of the Liquor Traffic.

The king having completed the enumeration of the laws of the kingdom, makes application as follows:

I. Entrance into the Kingdom Urged. (vv. 13, 14).

There are two ways only before each one—life and death, heaven and hell. The grand incentive held out is that it is the way to life. He just as plainly declares that the gate affording an entrance is straight and the way narrow. But while it is straight and narrow, it is an open gate, and all are invited to enter. Though the gate that leads to eternal life be straight and the way narrow in the beginning, it broadens out in every respect until the fullness of life is realized. On the other hand, the way which at first seems broad and pleasant becomes the way of the most abject slavery and limitation.

II. Warnings Against False Teachers (vv. 15-20).

1. Their real existence (v. 15). Ever since God has had a people, false prophets and teachers have appeared among them. That they appear everywhere need not at all surprise us, for Christ foretold that such should be the case (Matt. 24:11).

2. Their nature (v. 15). (1) They are hypocritical. The Devil does his most successful work by masquerading as an angel of light (II Cor. 11:14, 15). His ministers appear in this way and turn people from the narrow to the broad way. If the evil one would appear as he really is, his success would not be great. From the day when he appeared to Eve in the garden until this present time, his success has been due to his ability to deceive. (2) They are destructive. This is suggested by their being revenging wolves. It is when the wolf is in sheep's clothing that he does his most destructive work. It is so today. False teachers are doing their most deadly work while pretending to be loyal to the Bible and to Jesus Christ.

3. The unfailing test (vv. 16-18). "By their fruits ye shall know them." Every tree bears its own kind of fruit. Nature is inexorable in her laws as to this. One may search the universe in vain for an exception to this law. It is equally true in the spiritual world. There is a vital connection between the faith of the heart and the fruit of the life. That which comes out in the conduct was first in the heart. A right heart is essential to right conduct.

4. Their ultimate end (v. 19). All false teachers shall be finally punished by being cast into the fire. Although God has infinite patience and bears long, he will see to it that this work does not go on forever.

III. The Dangers of Empty Profession (vv. 21-23).

1. Merely calling Christ "Lord" will not answer for doing his will.

2. One may even do supernatural works and not be saved (vv. 22, 23).

Not all supernatural works are divine. There is a supernatural world of evil. It is the business of every believer to test the spirits (I John 4:1, 2).

3. Separation from God (v. 23). You may be a Sunday school teacher or preacher, and even perform many mighty works, as casting out devils, healing the sick, and yet hear from Jesus Christ, the King, the awful declaration "I never knew you, depart from me."

IV. The One and Only Safe Way (vv. 24-29).

1. Hear the sayings of Christ (v. 24). To do this you must give attention to reading the word of God. Avail yourself of every means at your command to become acquainted with God.
2. Do what Christ commands (vv. 24-29). One must put to practice Christ's teachings. Hearing and doing the teachings of Christ is building upon the solid rock. Christ Jesus, the Rock of Ages, is the only right foundation upon which to build. Such building can never be destroyed by flood and storm. Hearing and not doing Christ's sayings is building upon the sand, which in the time of the storm of God's wrath and judgment will be utterly destroyed. Obedience must follow hearing Christ.

A Prayer.

That it may please Thee to wean my affections from all things below; and to fill me with ardent desires after heaven; and finally to make me partaker of all Thy blessings and promises in Christ Jesus; I beseech Thee to hear me, Good Lord.—From Hele's Devotions.

Genius of Christianity.

It is the genius of Christianity to have transfigured sacrifice by displaying it to us as the reverse of the medal called love.—H. R. Haweis.

A Happy Family

Everett, Pa.—"The length of time that we have used Dr. Pierce's medicines I believe will testify to the fact that they gave entire satisfaction. I think I am safe in saying that we have used Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for 35 years and have found them superior to all other medicines as a stomach remedy. We always found them mild in their operation but very effective. I have also used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery off and on for 25 years. That I am living today I attribute to the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' My daughters as well as my sons have also made liberal use of it with great benefit to themselves.

"We would find it almost impossible to get along without Dr. Pierce's medicines. Our doctor bills have been almost negligible.
